TOLD TO MOVE.

St. Johns News Co. Has a Brief Business Career.

The location of a news stand last Saturday on what is known as the Peninsula Bank corner was the cause of the arrest of J. F. Handley, the proprietor, and the payment of $8.50 as a fine for violating one of the city ordinances.

The cause of the trouble was a long row of shelves sitting against the Cochran block from which periodicals of all kinds were offered for sale. In the few hours that the place was open it did a thriving business. Besides selling newspapers and periodicals the company proposed to install messenger service. The proprietor says he has operated these stands at various points along the coast and in every instance they have been well patronized and a great convenience to the public.

Hits the Nail on the Head.

J. J. Hill, the railway magnate, is reported as saying Oregon should not attempt to establish manufactures. We have a good export trade for our lumber and flour to Asiatic ports, and should give these and the exportations of our raw materials our attention instead of attempting to engage in manufacturing. Tariffs and the inter-state commerce laws prevent us from being successful manufacturers.

It is probable that Mr. Hill had in mind the prosperity of his transportation rather than that of Oregon and the Pacific Northwest. That manufactured articles must be carried long distances by rail before they may reach a port of export is probably a condition desirable to those engaged in the carrying business, but it certainly is a condition that should stimulate the establishment of manufacturing industries in Oregon and Washington.

If we have raw materials to export, why should we not manufacture them and export the product? May we not, here in Oregon, manufacture articles for export which are now made east and carried across the continent to our ports of export? Is it not probable that we are paying railway companies immense sums annually for bringing us commodities manufactured in the east which we might produce for ourselves?

T facts that we are distant from manufacturing centers and that we have supplies of raw materials are strong arguments why we should put "made in Oregon" on as many products as possible.

Twenty-five years ago some of the manufacturing possibilities of Oregon were plainly set forth; time has disclosed others, and now it must be apparent to all that these should be laid hold of and made to contribute to the growth of Oregon and the prosperity of our people. There are articles of iron product, of glass product, of wood manufacture, farm and agriculture implements, and others besides which can be and should be made in Oregon. Some of these should be made for our own consumption, others to enter into our export trade.

Let the advice of Mr. Hill add but greater incentive to the efforts making and that may be made to enlarge the list of things "made in Oregon."—Corvallis Gazette.

Unnecessary Expense.

Acute attacks of colic and diarrhoea come on without warning and prompt relief must be obtained. There is no necessity of incurring the expense of a physician's service if Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is at hand. A dose of this remedy will relieve the patient before a doctor could arrive. It has never been known to fail, even in the most severe and dangerous cases and no family should be without it. For sale by Jackson's Pharmacy.

For Sale Cheap.

One plunger pump, brass fitted with casing, capacity 5,000 gallons hour; one 15-horse power motor for alternating current, and in excellent condition. Call at St. Johns Water Company's office or phone East 6397. P. H. Edlfsen, Superintendent.

OREGON

Cannot Be Beaten for Climate, Fruit and Healthfulness.

If the people living in the far east only realized what they are missing by not residing in this part of the world the railroads would not be able to accommodate the travel coming this way. The idea seems to be prevalent in the east that Oregon is a cold, rainy state and a disagreeable place in which to live. The exposition dissipated this idea to a certain extent, but it was principally the wealthier class that was able to enjoy the trip to the coast. The great middle class is slow to believe the tales told them of Oregon's glorious climate and wonderful possibilities by the recent exposition visitors. Many also dislike to leave their friends and break the social ties at home. The idea of going so far away when they are not financially able to return if they find things not as represented keeps a large percentage away. Others believe in the old adage that a rolling stone gathers no moss, but fail to note the fact that a stone on a gravelly side hill likewise accumulates none of the green. If they hear of a person "going west" and doing well they ascribe it to luck, and claim that where one may succeed others are just as liable to fail. But if they just knew of the delightful, equitable climate, the good water, the fine fruit, the beautiful scenery and the fertile soil we cannot help but think that they would cast all obstacles aside and make it the goal of their lives to reach Oregon. Go where you will and talk with whom you may in western Oregon and with one accord all will say they are more than glad to be here, and many will tell you they have only one thing to be sorry for and that is that they did not come years ago.

Where a sunstroke is something unknown, where snow is a luxury and zero weather unusual, where lightning never strikes and thunder is seldom heard, where the grass is green all winter and roses bloom in December, where labor is never idle and with fruit the finest in the world we cannot help but feel proud of our Oregon, and sorry for sun-stricken and frost-bitten eastern residents, who cannot or will not realize that Oregon is a country similar to what Moses led the children of Israel to—only better.

So if our eastern brethren are desirous of bettering their condition in life, if they want to go where opportunities abound on every side, and where it is a pleasure just to be alive, we advise them to come to Oregon and settle in St. Johns.

A Bumper Crop.

As a cherry story, the following is hard to beat. It also shows what diversified farming would mean to Oregon farmers in general. The item is from the Eugene Guard: M. S. Barker, went over to M. H. Harlow's farm, just across the river, this morning to take a photograph of his two-acre Royal Ann cherry orchard to be used in the advertisement to be carried in the Pacific monthly by the Eugene commercial bodies. This orchard yielded a bumper crop this year. Off of the two acres, Mr. Harlow secured 23,700 pounds of eleven tons and 1700 pounds of cherries compared with 19,000 pounds or 9½ tons last year. At 4 cents a pound the cherries brought him $948 or $474 an acre. The cost of picking and marketing them was $236, leaving a net profit of $712 or $356 an acre. Mr. Harlow says if it had not been for the cold rains in May and June he would have had at least 20 per cent more cherries than he did.
